"Perfected Humanity and Maizbhandari Tariqa"

(ICPHMT 2026)

Syed Ahmad Ullah Maizbhandari (1826-1906), a very renowned Islamic Jurist, Professor of Islamic Studies, and famous Sufi-Master, founded the Maizbhandari Tariqa in the late 19th century. The Maizbhandari Tariqa is the only Sufi order that is originated in Bengal. The tariqa emphasizes self-purification, tolerance, interfaith harmony, coexistence, and the importance of giving priority to the will of Allah by distinguishing the concepts of Usul-e Sab'a, Wilayat-e- Mutlaqa, Adal-e-Mutlaq, and Tawhid-e-Adyan. The tariqa draws its legacy mainly from the teachings of Shaykh Ibn Arabi (1165-1240) and Shaykh Abd al-Ghani Ibn Ismail al-Nabalusi (1641-1731). It has maintained a very significant influence and popularity throughout the 19th to the 21st century by drawing a huge adherents from the various social strata in South Asia and the South Asian Diasporas in various continents around the globe irrespective of race, religion, cast, and creed. Still it is one of the fastest growing tariqas with its huge number of devotees and adherents around the globe as a research report prepared by the Migration Review Tribunal (MRT) and Refugee Review Tribunal (RRT) of Australia reported that the order has over ten million followers. Without compromising its adherence to Islam, the tariqa relishes various features like liberality, inclusiveness, adaptive nature and cultural diversity. The tariqa acts as an influential and very effective shield to safeguard individuals, in their private and public sphere, from both religious conservatism and atheism with its values and practices.

The tariqa has a substantial body of written works, including hagiographies and theological treatises. It is also known for its unique genre of devotional songs that created a very significant 'Sufi-folk' genre named Maizbhandari Gaan. Besides Wilayat-e-Mutalaqa by Syed Delawor Hossain, the very basic book on the tariqa, there are a number of books, book chapters, newspaper and periodical articles, and peer reviewed academic journal articles on the tariqa. Among those Aminul Haq Farhadabadi's Tuḥfat al-aḥyār fī daf' šarārat al-šarār (1906), Abdul Ghani Kanchanpuri's Āʿīna-i Bārī (1913), Sarwar Alam's Cultural Fusion of Sufi Islam: Alternative Paths to Mystical Faith, Routledge Studies in Religion (2019), Amit Dey's The Image of the Prophet in Bengali Muslim Piety, 1850-1947 (2005), Hans Harder's Sufism and Saint Veneration in Contemporary Bangladesh: The Maijbhandaris of Chittagong, Routledge (2011), and Peter J. Bertocci's "A Sufi movement in Bangladesh: The Maijbhandari tariqa and its followers" are a few to mention.

Part of the celebration of the bicentennial birth anniversary of Syed Ahmad Ullah Maizbhandari, Darul Irfan Research Institute (DIRI) is going to publish a special issue of its home journal, Darul Irfan Research Journal, (ISSN: 2710-3595) and an edited book focusing only on the life of the great Sufi-master and his Maizbhandari Tariqa. This special issue of the journal and the edited book aim to explore the historical significance of the Maizbhandari Tariqa and its transition from the Wilayat-e-Muqayyadah to Wilayat-e-Mutlaqa, examining how the understanding of Wilayat reshapes the spiritual and social mindset of the present century and the centuries coming ahead. By addressing religious foundations and practical applications, this special issue of the journal and the edited book will also provide a fresh insights into the future of spiritualty in an era of artificial intelligence and socio-religious stratifications.

In short, through the lens of Maizbhandari Tariqa and the teaching of Syed Ahmad Ullah Maizbhandari, we want:

1. to explore the theoretical and practical implications of tariqa and spirituality.
2. to identify the open trends of religious understanding shaping the future of spirituality.
3. to provide a platform for interdisciplinary research at the intersection of religion, spirituality, tariqa, and the spirit of Tawhid-e-Adyan.
4. to foster discussions on the religious, ethical, social, environmental and inter-faithdimensions of spirituality.

We earnestly invite original research papers, case studies, conceptual papers, and book chapters on topics including, but not limited to:
